

Are you a Consultant Surgeon or Physician interested in working as a volunteer instructor in a developing country setting?

Specialists Without Borders (SWB) is an Australia-based non-profit organisation with the aim of improving health outcomes and enhancing the sustainability of medical service provision in developing countries.

We are delivering medical education seminars in Malawi and Rwanda in August 2012, and are inviting expressions of interest from consultant surgeons and physicians who would be interested in joining the SWB team of volunteer instructors. The proposed seminar dates are 8th - 10th August in Malawi and 13th - 15th August in Rwanda.

SWB seminars involve group lectures, small group tutorials and teaching in district hospitals. Each seminar program is formulated according to the partner country training needs. As SWB is a non-profit organisation, all volunteer instructors self-fund their costs for the trip.

For more information on how you can contribute to enhancing medical education provision in developing countries, visit the SWB website or email info@specialistswithoutborders.org.
